Description

1965 Gibson Hummingbird, serial number 361672, in vintage Cherry Sunburst finish. It features a spruce top with mahogany neck and rosewood fretboard. The pickguard has the Hummingbird's signature engraved hummingbird-butterfly trumpet-flower motif. In original hardshell case. Gibson introduced the Hummingbird line of steel-string acoustic guitars in 1960 as the brand's first dreadnought style guitar. It featured squared shoulders and a larger body, similar to the guitars produced by C.F. Martin & Company. When it was first produced, the Hummingbird was Gibson's second-most expensive acoustic guitar model behind the J-200.
